Man Bites Dog

"Man bites dog!" thought the English judge the other day, as he listened from his bench in Cambridge to the strange case before him.

A police officer named Peebles was reporting that he had received a hurry-up call to come to a restaurant. There, he reported, defendant Henry Strachan had stumbled in, "walked over to a dog that was chained in a corner, knelt down, caught the dog round the neck, and bit it on the nose."

The judge blinked. "Was the dog hurt?" he demanded, sternly stifling a smile.

"No," replied the officer, "but Mr. Strachan's false teeth fell out!"

Dumb Animals

After giving the private a dressing down for being so late in returning with supplies, the sergeant demanded: "Okay let's hear how it happened."

"Well, I picked up a chaplain along the road," said the rookie, "and from then on the mules couldn't understand a word I said."

NATURALLY

The marble tournament was in full force. One little boy had missed an easy shot, and let slip a real cuss word.

"Golfers," was the reply.

A MAJOR CHANGE in the design of hair brushes applying modern, scientific principles to personal care of the hair and scalp, has been announced by Fay's Professional Brush Company, New York City, which has introduced a new professional brush minus the old-fashioned long handle.

The new brush has two conformable finger grooves with a "magic button" grip, and a grouping of long bristles. Its package is constructed to hold the brush and protect it from dust when not in use. Convenient in size, the brush fits easily into a woman's hand bag or a man's overnight kit.

In addition to the new finger-grip feature, the bristles in the brush are curved two ways, from end to end, and side to side, thereby giving the user complete use of the bristles in any direction. This assures healthier hair and cleaner scalp.

Mr. Cook said he shot the varmint and threw it out in the yard.

The next morning he examined the carcass and saw a whole flock of little "possums" about the size of rats scampering about their dead mother. When they saw Mr. Cook they ran into their mother's pockets. Mr. Cook said he shook out an even dozen little possums making 13 less possum population when he finished the slaughter. In this case Mr. Cook considers the number 13 lucky.

THIS WEEK

IN THE NATIONAL GUARD
(By Albert Reeves, Adm. Asst.)

Bitzy "A" last Monday night had a photographer over from Dothan to take pictures to be used in the Alabama Guardsman Magazine. The magazine is giving a story on Battery A from the time it was organized in the early '20's up to the present time. It will include pictures of the men now in the battery. Let's all look for the next issue of the Alabama Guardsman about the 15th of May.

The following men from this unit were transferred to the inactive National Guard on April 15: Sgt. E. W. Crosby, Pfc Lamar McDowell, Pvt. Gerald Johnson, Ret. Jack R. Brunson, Otha D. Farris and Junior Wambles.

We now have six vacancies in the Guards, and if you can qualify, be at our regular drill on Monday night or see Sgt. Albert D. Reeves at the Army any day.

According to the latest information, the State will build a storm fence behind the Army to be used by the motor pool. The fence will cost $200.00 and will be 360 feet of fence with a 14 ft. gate. It will be put to good advantage by the Motor Section during training. Every little bit we can get done to our Army will make it a better place to drill.

During the last few drills we have been teaching individual marksmanship so that all the new members will be able to qualify with the carbine next week-end at Camp Rucker, Ala. We are trying to get all men to qualify at least a marksmanship. Everyone interested is urged to visit the Army at any time and see what the new National Guard is doing to help guard the peace we enjoy today.

We have lots of last minute instructions to pass out before going to camp this summer. Watch this column in the Elba Clipper for the latest information.

All the officers and 55 enlisted men will leave the Army Saturday at 10:00 A. M. for Camp Rucker to spend the week-end for small arms firing. The rest of the battery will go the next morning May 8 and May 15. It is Important that all men get the practice with the carbines. All men will be paid for two full days for going.

New men enlisted Monday night, April 25 are as follows: Ret. Ted Vaughan, Waylan V. Addison, Perrell E. Hudson, Charlie Jacobs, Howard C. Stroud and James R. Dyess. Battery "A" is proud to have the above named men as new members. We are back to full strength, but will have other openings in the near future. Contact the Army for full information if you want to join the National Guard.

ment will issue your "Preliminary Permit" giving authority to construct a dam and prepare the area to be flooded.

4. After work is completed on the pond an inspection will be made by both the county sanitation officer and county game warden.

5. Upon favorable inspection report from the county Health Department Authority to Impound will be granted. Only after this authority is granted can the owner legally close the bottom drain and permit the pond to fill with water.

6. Along with the Authority to Impound the owner will be sent a postal card addressed to the State Conservation Department advising them that the pond is legally impounded and that the owner is desirous of receiving fish for stocking purposes.

The successful control of the malaria transmitting mosquito depends to a great extent upon the proper preparation and maintenance of the areas to be flooded. Likewise the successful production of fish depends among other things, upon the proper preparation and maintenance of the areas to be flooded. Almost all of the recommendations made by the fish culturists for the culture of fish are practically the same as those required by the Regulations Governing the Impounding of Waters.

Alabama's pond law was passed in 1927 for malarial control purposes.

Your sanitation officer or the county agent will be glad to help you with your pond.

Follow Regulations For Malaria Free Fish Ponds

In Coffee County there are approximately 64 fish ponds all of which are subject to regulations governing impounded water. Of the 64 ponds only 34 are on record. Thirty owners have made applications for permits to construct ponds and 30 permits have been issued but only 20 owners have the "authority to impound".

Records of Malaria Control Activities for the year 1948 indicate a heavy production of malaria transmitting mosquito, Anopheles quadrimaculatus.

The construction of each fish pond creates an additional potential breeding place. Unless the pond is properly prepared and eradic maintenance work carried out the pond ceases to be a potential and becomes an actual malaria transmitting breeding area.

The State Health Officer and the Director of the Department of Conservation have conferred and agreed on policies and practices relative to their interest in the preparation of lakes and ponds.

The procedure for obtaining "Authority to Impound" and Fish for stocking the pond is as follows:

1. Request an application form from the County or State Health Department.

2. After you have received the explanatory materials and application blank fill out application and return to the State Health Department.

3. Upon receipt of your application the State Health Department

ment will issue your "Preliminary Permit" giving authority to construct a dam and prepare the area to be flooded.

4. After work is completed on the pond an inspection will be made by both the county sanitation officer and county game warden.

5. Upon favorable inspection report from the county Health Department Authority to Impound will be granted. Only after this authority is granted can the owner legally close the bottom drain and permit the pond to fill with water.

6. Along with the Authority to Impound the owner will be sent a postal card addressed to the State Conservation Department advising them that the pond is legally impounded and that the owner is desirous of receiving fish for stocking purposes.

The successful control of the malaria transmitting mosquito depends to a great extent upon the proper preparation and maintenance of the areas to be flooded. Likewise the successful production of fish depends among other things, upon the proper preparation and maintenance of the areas to be flooded. Almost all of the recommendations made by the fish culturists for the culture of fish are practically the same as those required by the Regulations Governing the Impounding of Waters.

Alabama's pond law was passed in 1927 for malarial control purposes.

Your sanitation officer or the county agent will be glad to help you with your pond.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

LITERARY AND DOCTRINAL READING: Matthew 11:20-24

Jesus Is King
Lesson for May 1, 1949

IT IS A SIN to tell the truth out of season. So declares a famous Protestant creed. It is not always good nor wise to tell everybody everything you know. Keeping your mouth shut may be one of the best things you ever do.

Jesus himself knew how to keep a secret till time to tell it. He never uttered an untruth about himself, but for a long time he did not openly declare his conviction, in spite of being pestered to say Yes or No about it.

The question was: Are you the Messiah? This was the same as asking, "Are you the King?" Jesus would not say Yes, because the more word would be taken to mean "revolutionist" or "traitor." But he would not say No, because he was a King; indeed of all men he had the best right to the title.

Tears in Triumph

IT WAS NOT altogether a victorious occasion. Jesus knew too well how cheap and easy "demonstrations" can be. In his mind's eye he could see the soldiers outside Jerusalem, and in his inner ear he could hear the same dusty-throated mob now shouting "Hosanna!" yelling instead "Crucify him!" Tears stood in Jesus' eyes. But they were not tears for himself; he never wasted energy in self-pity. They were tears for that blind city, tears for its coming destruction — the city that did not know the way to peace.

Master of the Temple

BOLDER THAN JESUS' triumphal entry was what he did inside the city. It was one thing to claim royal rights over the nation; but at the temple Jesus' claims reached far higher. It should be remembered that in the eyes of all Jews at that time the Temple was absolutely sacred. It represented the dwelling-place of the invisible God. Now the priests at that time were men of power and influence. They carried on what to us we call a "racket" in the sale of animals for sacrifice and in changing the ordinary money of all countries into the local Jewish shekel in which coin alone could temple offerings be paid.

The racket was notorious; every decent Jew hated the priests' profiteers. But no one had ever done anything about it, for that would mean assuming an authority over the temple that no man dared to assume.

But Jesus took it on himself. His direct and even violent action in smashing the racketeering ring was a mark of something more than ordinary self-confidence. He laid claim to being no less than the Master of God's Temple. He was acting in the name of God and with the authority of God.

Master of Man

WHEN THE CHRISTIAN church calls Jesus "Lord" and "King" today, we are making no claim for him which he did not make for himself. What we mean by these titles is that Jesus Christ, for us and for all men, is the authority above all others.

SHORT STORY
Magic Month
By DYER WILSON

HELEN AND ANDY weren't laughing. They were sitting in metal chairs which were placed at right angles to each other, instead of side by side on the glider, and the glow in their eyes was replaced by anger.

"The trouble is you have no ambition!" Helen was saying as her wide set gray eyes flashed angrily. "You act lazy!" The long curls were given a toss as she got up to her feet.

Andy got up too. He gave her the one sided smile he'd brought home from war with him and shrugged his heavy shoulders. Andy had blond curls, too-tight to his well shaped head and the merriest of hazel eyes. "You can say that again," he told Helen. "I act lazy, do I?"

Well, that's that and I'll re-enlist and get as far from Hyville as possible. When he got home the radio was playing live and he wound one leg over the chair beside it. His mother came into the room and said, "aren't you going to look for a job today, son?"

As he worried for an answer the announcer interrupted the program to tell about a soap contest. "Five hundred dollars for first prize," he said, "just tell in twenty-five words why you like Sudzy-Soap best!"

"I'm trying to think up an entry for the contest, Mom," said Andy directing his hazel eyes up and grinning like an imp. "Only I'll have to have the wrappers from three bars of the darned soap."

Andy Tyson tried not to understand that she intended he had wasted too many afternoons. He made great work of wording his entry and addressed the envelope for mailing.

Habit turned his steps into the corner store where the fellows laughed and teased him about his entry. Half angry again he hurried out of the place and tossed the letter into the nearest mailbox.

In the three weeks that went by he didn't go near Helen nor did he look for a job. One day slipped into the next and a lassness seemed to hold him tight. He was marking time and getting more dissatisfied with every passing hour.

THE NIGHT, a day later, when he got home to find excitement in the very air and Mom holding out a telegram he ripped it open and nearly passed out. SUDZY-SOAP IS PROUD TO ANNOUNCE YOU WINNER OF FIRST PRIZE. STOP. LISTEN TO USUAL SATURDAY PROGRAM. STOP. CONGRATULATIONS.

Never Again

THE little village shop did not seem to be doing very good business, and the customer, who had been chatting with the owner, thought he would make a helpful suggestion.

"What you want to do," he said, "is to advertise."

"Advertise? Not!" "Why on earth not?" asked the customer.

"I did once," came the reply, "and it darned near ruined me."

"Turned you?" gasped the customer. "How on earth was that?"

"Why," responded the shopkeeper, "folks in, on coming in and buying things until they nearly cleaned me out!"

SURPRISE!
A fat lady stopped on the scales. They were out of order and an indicator stopped at 75 pounds.

An inebriated gent watched her intently. "My kosh," he marveled, "she's hollow!"

The first telegraph system in Ala. provided service between Montgomery, Cahaba, Mobile and New Orleans. The system was chartered by the legislature March 3, 1848. The average pay of each operator in the three Alabama cities amounted to $750 annually. His duties ranged from relaying messages to sweeping out the telegraph office.

Alabama's first political machine was organized by a Georgian, William H. Crawford, who gained political importance serving as Secretary of the Treasury under President James Monroe. Outstanding members of the machine were John W. Walker, LeRoy Pope and William Wyatt Bibb.

right after the mechanics job he saw advertised in the morning paper.

Saturday night the whole family gathered for the radio program telling of the contest and the winners.

He ripped the telegram open and when the messenger boy gave him a telegram he glanced at it and ripped it open. "HOW DID IT FEEL TO BE A PRIZE WINNER FOR A FEW DAYS? STOP, THE BOYS."

Andy was half way out the door when Helen caught up with him, and a telegram he glanced at it and ripped it open. "HOW DID IT FEEL TO BE A PRIZE WINNER FOR A FEW DAYS? STOP, THE BOYS."

Helen laughed as she read the telegram. Tears rolled down her lovely cheeks and still she laughed. Andy couldn't help laughing with her.

"If they hadn't done it we'd still be angry with each other," she pointed out. "and you wouldn't have your job—and we wouldn't be planning on getting married."

Fancied Sea Serpent Finally Identified as Elephant Seal
MONTREAL, CALIF. — Bobo the sea serpent, which frightened many Monterey bay fishermen by surfacing behind a small boat, has turned out to be an elephant seal.

Identification was made by a batch of Hopkins marine school after the "serpent," 17½ feet long, was washed up on the beach near Port Ord. The cause of death was not apparent.

Scientists said elephant seals, possessing a small tooth, have teeth up to eight inches long and fangs frequently coated with barbed hooks. Once they were fairly common in northern California waters.

After a visit to dancing school, one mother advised her small daughter that she should not just dance like a totem pole, talking to her partner was also a part of the social picture.

On a later visit the mother saw that each time the mother saw the same little boy tore across the floor, bowed to her daughter, and swept her away to the music.

"Oh, him," her small daughter explained, "I'm telling him a continued murder mystery."

NOW THEY KNOW

Two of three girls, who had grown up together, married, and thereafter they continually annoyed their spinster friend with tactless remarks about her unhappy condition.

She laughed off their comments goodnaturedly until one day they went a bit too far. "Now tell us truthfully," they twitted her, "have you ever really had a chance to marry?" With a withering glance, she retorted, "Suppose you ask your two husbands."

There is no financial measure for service that, through sympathetic understanding and perfection of detail, leaves priceless and beautiful memories.

Huntsville's most famous cow, a Jersey named "Lily Flag" was owned by Samuel H. Moore, a well-to-do planter. When Lily Flag won first prize at the top butter producer at the 1893 Chicago World's Fair, her owner gave a reception in her honor. Prominent people were invited from all over the nation—via invitations bearing "Lily Flag" picture and record.

SHORT STORY

Mr. Diggle's On Duty

Mr. DIGGLES kept his head down as though he were studying the prescription, scarcely hearing Mrs. Tompkins' voice through the noise of blood thudding in his temples. When he tried to speak, his lips were dry and his tongue moved nervously over them. "I beg your pardon, Mrs. Tompkins, what was that you said?"

He looked again at Dr. Price's cramped handwriting. "Oh, I'll deliver it, Mrs. Tompkins. I'm sorry to learn Mr. Tompkins isn't well. I told him it's just his bad disposition coming out. I told Dr. Price I certainly hated to drag him out in weather like this just for a stomach ache. Doctor says he'll be all right in a day or two."

Mr. Diggle took the handkerchief from the pocket of his grey alpaca coat and wiped his forehead. The moment he used to dream of years ago, was here at last. This would cost Dr. Price his practice. The pity was, Dr. Price would never know he could have saved himself, if he hadn't made it so clear that a man who mixed prescriptions wasn't supposed to know about diagnosis. Dr. Price would never know what he'd done to himself when he told Mrs. White she might as well give the twins a chocolate soda as Diggle's Own Whooping Cough Mixture. Because of Dr. Price's new ways of doing things, no one bought Diggle's Ready Rheumatism Reliever now. Shots it was, the doctor was giving for everything. Not prescriptions.

Manlaughter, they called it. He wet his lips. Well, no one could expect Mr. Diggle to interfere with Dr. Price's prescriptions again. Not a second time.

Though it was so many years ago, he could feel the flush of anger that flooded his face remembering the day he'd called Dr. Price up, and suggested that maybe the heart medicine he ordered for Mr. Venables was too strong.

"I know what I'm doing. Just mind your own business, Diggle, and I can mind mine."

He looked again at the prescription. There was no mistaking the symbol and he'd fill it as it stood. He reached for the bottle and removed the cork. Carefully, he measured out the prescribed dose.

Mr. DIGGLES straightened suddenly, staring at the partly filled mortar. A feeling of nausea swept through him as he snatched it up and flung the contents into the

Dr. Price sat down and mopped his forehead.

Extras Extra

Writer: "How much board will you charge me for a few weeks while I gather material for my new country novel?"

Hiram: "Five dollars a week unless we have to talk dialect. That's three dollars extra."

Nothing To Wear

An artist had just finished reading a story through, and was about to begin illustrating it for a magazine.

"I say," he said to his wife, "this story is supposed to have happened in 1897. Now what dresses like ten years ago?"

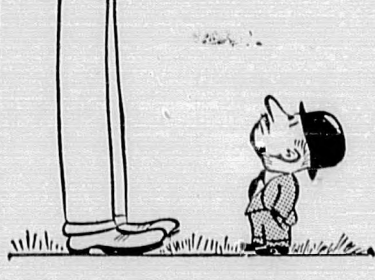

"Like mine!" she retorted, throwing him a bitter glance.

Imagine!

Mrs. Banks—"Well, I admit that I was outspoken at the Social Service meeting today."

Mr. Banks—"I don't believe it. Who outspoke you?"

NATURALLY

There was some jealousy in the circus, and the giant and the dwarf were not on the best of terms when the little man complained of indisposition. "Throat trouble, I think," he said.

"A man of your inches couldn't tell whether he'd got laryngitis or housemaid's knee."

Apology Due

TWO men had spent a joyous evening together in town, and with the generosity occasioned by good cheer one insisted on taking the other home with him.
They caught the last train to Weybridge. On reaching that town they found no conveyance at the station to help them farther on their way, so they set out on foot.
The first, said, "George, old man,
I'm sorry. I must 'pologize'.
"Not at all, Harry, not at all," replied his friend. "Had a glorious evening!"
To which Harry retorted: "Yes, George, must 'pologize'. Fact is, we moved last week. We're living at Wimbledon now."

THE OLD OIL

The famous artist was painting in the mountains and wanted a live subject for one of his sketches.
"I'll give you five dollars," said he to a languid native, "If you will let me paint you."
The mountain girl's eyes gleamed
but she said nothing for a moment or so.

"That's easy money stranger,
I'll have to admit. I was just wonderin' how I'd get the paint off afterwards."

Red Bay, Alabama was named in honor of the bay flower that grows along Big Bear Creek.

WHERE GEORGE SLEPT

In a schoolroom in one of our large cities a kindergarten teacher was telling the children about George Washington. In illustration, she displayed a large picture of Mount Vernon.
"This," she said, "is the house where George Washington lived."
The children, all apartment-dwellers, gazed intently at the picture. One, more impressed than the others, asked with great interest,
"What floor?"
